The following entry won the Easter Egg Hunting contest in last week's Seminarian. The person finding the most Easter Eggs was Crissy Stone. We thought the seminary community would appreciate this letter, so we have reproduced it for you. Congratulations Crissy! Your jelly beans are on their way.

Dear Editor I Counted

WHAT'S UP IN CHAPEL --

On Thursday, April 15 at 12:10 the Rev. David Wartluft will be preaching in the chapel. Next Monday, April 19, Dr. Leroy Aiken will present the message during the chapel period. Holy Communion will be celebrated on Wednesday, April 21 by Dr. Howard Stone. The "Rejoice!" folk mass will be again used at that time. The Mt. Airy Sacred strings will be making their second appearance for the season at this time.

Ye Olde Fashioned LAWN PARTY

As you know, the Deaconess House at Gladwyn will be the scene of an old-fashioned lawn party on May 1. Festivities will begin at 7p.m. We expect to have a barbershop quartet and our very own Junk Band, made up of local talent. Refreshments will be served, and a variety of lawn games available. (Our lawn game committee doesn't know how to set up a croquet game, so you may just want to come and watch that.) Plan to bring your children (only if you have some) because we will have a Kiddie Koncession to entertain them. (No, the Kiddie Koncession is not open to adults unless they have a note from their mothers.)

Dress is casual - whatever you'd wear to a lawn party. Guests will be present from places other than the House & Seminary. Arlene, Darlene, Melody, or Ingrid will be happy to answer your questions and consider suggestions you may have for the evening.

HOUSING

Any one needing housing for their dates on the Spring Formal weekend of April 30th is welcome to contact Barbara Nelson at CH8-5124, or Dyann Taylor at CH7-8281.

EDITORIAL EMERITUS (cont. from p. 3) appreciated Dr. Perry's visit with us and the chance to rap with him face to face. Many of the rumors that had filtered my way were dispelled, and his openness brought new hope. I hope that his hopes and ideas are carried through. So as not to get too mushy--let me simply say-----

Engaged --

Carol Held and Richard Locke have announced their engagement. They plan to marry here in Philadelphia in October.

Choir

ACTIVITIES

The Seminary Choir started out this year by singing at Princeton University Chapel for the installation of Edwin Ehlers, the President of N.J. Synod in September. Several new works by Dr. Lornemann were premiered here.

The winter season found the choir busy both here in Philadelphia and in New York. December provided Advent Vespers for the choir to show its stuff. In February, the choir made a week-end tour of Metropolitan New York Synod. Although the tour was rigorous, the time spent was enjoyable.

In March the choir made a tour through the Upper New York Synod from the 17th to the 21st. Then the American Society of Ancient Instruments had the pleasure of hearing your choir sing in concert on March 31. April 5th provided a concert at St. Mark's Church in Philadelphia.

If you have not yet heard the choir this year, you have one more opportunity to hear it. On Monday, April 19 at Ascension Church the choir will sing for the Homecoming Concert for the year. The faculty and some students of St. Charles Seminary will also be present. A well-deserved reception honoring the choir will follow this concert. Two specialties will be provided at this concert. Melvin Brown, the guest soloist of the choir this year, a full-time student at Manhattan School of Music, will perform "Child of the Ghetto". This is a collection of three poems, written by children and set to music by Dr. Lornemann. In addition the first performance of "10.3 Southbound", three poems composed from graffiti on the Allens Lane Station walls set to music will be sung by Mary Margaret Woods.

The Graduation Concert on May 14 will be the last concert this year. At this time, Dr. Newpher, the new President of the Seminary will be installed.

Dr. Perry--THANK YOU and I look forward to good years with you at the helm.
John R. Koons, ed. emeritus.

Thank you, Faculty Wives!!

The staff of the Seminarian expresses its appreciation of the efforts of those faculty members and their wives who opened their homes to the student community the week after Spring Break. Some very good reports have been heard from students who were able to attend these get-togethers. Most seem to feel that it was an enjoyable, relaxing evening; one in which students had a chance to see that faculty members do have an informal side, and are able to have fun; and also one in which the faculty was able to see that the students are interested in getting to know them a little better. Furthermore, both faculty and students were able to see that we really can communicate with each other in some instances. It is this last point which was most noteworthy about the evening. In the past few weeks it has become clear that many of our problems here at Mt. Airy are due to a serious lack of communication, and the misunderstanding which this leads to. It is encouraging to know that both students and faculty have the ability and even the desire to talk to each other; even to learn from and about each other.

Again our thanks to those responsible for setting up these evenings - for both their efforts and their perseverance. We hope that the large response and turn-out was an indication to these people that their work was successful. As has been said already, it may be that this one evening did more to increase communication and remove distrust between faculty and students than any other activity so far this year.

We do feel that in light of this, more evenings like this should be planned, perhaps even being set up on a regular basis (once a month or so). Since there would be an expense involved, it might be possible that groups of students or student organizations might be able to sponsor some of these get-togethers. The evenings were successful and helpful, but even the most successful events have a way of fading in the memory. One way to keep this from happening would be to build on the success, and continue to hold these get-togethers. A line of communication has been opened, we hope that this line can be continued and strengthened.

EDITORIAL EMERITUS

During my term as editor I penned many editorials and I was consequently accused of never saying anything positive. Perhaps my rebuttal was one of vitriolic cynicism when I said, "When there is something positive to write about, I'd write it." The preceding sentence is not open for debate, but rather the purpose of this editorial emeritus is to write something positive--believe it or not!!!

Over the past few weeks, I have been well pleased!! The faculty-student curriculum meeting while encountering some problems, did accomplish something. The faculty open-houses (see Davidson's article) also showed a fresh change! But perhaps one of the best things that happened was the two days spent by Dr. Perry on campus rapping with the students.

Last week Dr. Perry's latest communication appeared on campus. I thank Dr. Perry for writing the letter and also for sharing it with the students. I personally (cont. p.2)

Please Note!

"CHAIRS" HERE

The new order of soda is delivered every Thursday morning - the order is worked up Wednesday nights - only the empty cases are replaced (i.e. four empty cases - four fresh ones). To insure good service and a good selection please have all empties returned by Wednesday Nights around 10:00 p.m. Last week we were missing 24 bottles - one whole case!

Thank you.

We're Sorry!

The crossword puzzle in the last week's issue. If you tried to do the cross word puzzle, you were probably stumped by number 15 across. The clue to that answer is:

"11"

Unfortunately our Greek type-writer was on loan to a shepherd in the Phrygian mountains who is writing his autobiography. Again our apologies to all you crossword fans, and especially to the author of that particular puzzle.

Don't forget the campus elections for president and treasurer of the student body this week. Also included on this ballot are the nominations for places to send the money collected in chapel.

The Chairs, a drama will be presented on Thursday, April 15 and Friday, April 16 by the Mt. Airy Players. The curtain goes up at 8:00 p.m. The performance is in the choir room of Ascension Church. The community and visitors are welcomed.

Spring Banquet

Monday, April 19 is the last day to buy your tickets for the annual Spring Banquet. The following people will be selling them:

- Hogan Spencer
- John Villaume
- David Kiefer
- Mike Kinsdorf

The date for the occasion is April 30 at Jannie Shaw's Golden Chariot Restaurant on route 309 in Montgomeryville (about 20 minutes from the seminary). The festivities will begin at 6:30 with cocktails. Dinner will be served from 7:30 until 9:00. There is a three piece female band will play until 1:00 a.m.

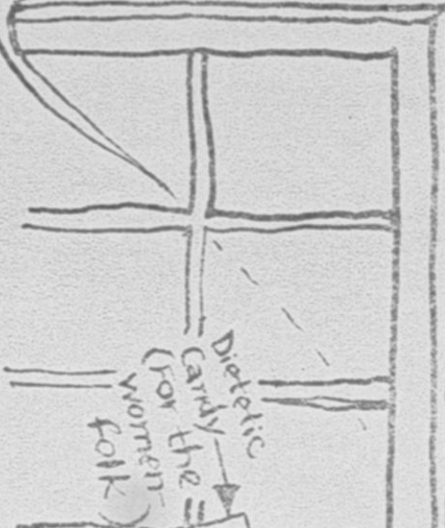

Last night the Mt. Airy Hoopla-ers, led by Annie Holberg and Bob Doyer, bowed to Westminster Seminary by one point. Steve (Goldenboy) Gerhard paved the way for Mt. Airy with board strength. Jumpin' John Schlotter marveled the crowds by repeatedly pouring in points from the deep corners. Bill "the quill" Villaume while not tallying, thrilled the crowds with his constant determination, drive, defense, and desire. Dick Olson twisted his ankle in the first minutes of play and rode the bench for the remaining three and a half quarters. Gerhard did a magnificent job on the 6'10" monster Rowe, holding him way below his average.
